1. The day at a glance

↑ Contents

Frustrated Coverage this period centers on Israeli incursions in Quneitra and Daraa, continued fuel/diesel shortages despite tanker arrivals, Barzani-Abdi talks on Kurdish constitutional rights, a dust storm in the east, and diplomatic moves (customs decree, World Bank/IMF talks, Saudi oil deal). Public reaction is heavily sarcastic and angry toward the government over its perceived passivity against Israel while reportedly considering involvement in Yemen, and frustrated over fuel and currency woes. Kurdish-language audiences express pride in Kurdish identity and skepticism about integration promises, while Arabic commenters mock officials and show weary fatalism; outlets remain comparatively measured and diplomatic in tone.
